For the Interdisciplinary Psychotherapy Journal, which belongs to the scientific and professional international magazines, authors can apply only with their original paper works. Paper works previously published and/or presented at a scientific or professional gathering will not be accepted.

Summary of the paper work should be written in two languages: in the native language and in English, with the use of maximum 150 words. The authors are responsible for linguistic and grammar quality of the paper work. The publisher is not responsible for proofreading the paper work before publishing it.

The paper work will pass a double-blind review and after the final confirmation by reviewers that the paper work meets publishers’ criteria, it will be published in the journal.

The journal includes four categories
- an original research article,
- review article,
- an expert article and
- case study

Confirmed paper works will be published in the electronic form on the Interdisciplinary Journal of Psychotherapy - Psychotherapy in Achieving Health and Well-being Young People http://journal.psychotherapy.ba/and will be available on the official web site in the form of an online Journal http://journal.bhidapa.ba/

The paper work must contain summary, keywords, introduction /problem/subject, objective, research methodology, results/outcomes, short interpretation of results-conclusion and reference.

The paper work should be written in Word, A4-size paper, (all) margins – 2.5 cm, Times New Roman font, font size – 12 (except headings which size is 14 bold), spacing 1.5 and alignment – justified (except the title which is centered). The title of the work should be as short as possible (maximum 10 words) and capitalized. After the title, it is necessary to write the full names and surnames of all authors, their professions, functions, organization, city, state, and contact details (email).
The paper work should at the very beginning contain abstract and few keywords; maximum amount of words is 2500. In writing, APA rules should be respected.

THANK YOU!
